Presented by Stephen J. McPhee, M.D.

Dr. McPhee, professor of internal medicine at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF) is a regular contributor to the JAMA column on end of life care and a key member of the UCSF Palliative Care Leadership Center. He will discuss expanding medical care at the end of life to address psychological, social, cultural and spiritual needs and issues of both patients and families.

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa-sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact Julie Bobitt in advance at 319-384-4222.
